

Am I entitled to request urgent treatment of my request for access if the document I request is needed for protection of someone's life or liberty?

In an event of request for a public document, which on the basis of a reasonable assessment is considered necessary to protect the life or liberty of a person, the public institution shall be obliged to provide a reply within forty-eight (48) hours.

What are the document formats of access that I am entitled to request?

You are entitled to request:

- the exact copy in print or other form of the requested public documents;
- the opportunity to view public documents, whenever possible, by using the institution's own equipment;
- the possibility of copying public documents using your own equipment;
- a written transcript of words contained in audio or visual form if it exists or is derived from an open meeting;
- a transcript of the content of a printed, audio or visual recording, in the case where such a transcript exists, using equipment that is generally accessible to the public institution.

What should I do if the Information and Privacy Agency rejects my complaint?

In the event of a full or partial rejection of the complaint by the Agency, you may file a suit before the competent court for administrative matters within thirty (30) days from the day of receipt of the final decision by the Agency.
